

Volunteer Social Media Officer

Minimum 4 Months. Part-Time.

Are you an undergraduate or recent graduate in digital marketing or similar? Or are you someone looking to return to work to use your newly-honed digital skills? Or are you on furlough, looking for a volunteering opportunity?

If so, why not help us to make a difference by supporting people living with long-term health conditions, many of whom may be relying on social media while shielding or self-isolating?

Thistle a leading health and wellbeing charity looking for help to further extend our social media outreach and show that we're still here for people who need us. We support people struggling with the devastating diagnosis of a long-term health condition, many of whom are finding social-distancing and self-isolation very difficult. To keep our work going, we also need to raise vital funds.

We're looking to grow interactions and engagement across Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn and Instagram to meet the needs of our community and help us fundraise. We are looking for someone who is happy scheduling, creating content and comfortable with SEO and analytics and someone who wants to be part of our community.

This is a part-time or full-time role for a minimum of 4 months.

To find out more, contact Clare Stephen, Senior Communications Officer, on 07525100568 or email clare.stephen@thistle.org.uk